Messrs. WHELPLEY and CORNISH, local committees of the third and eighth divisions, respectively, submitted the following report in regard to the exchange of the Blair and Logan schools referred to them at the meeting held July 27, 1892:

To the Board of Trustees, Public Schools, District of Columbia:

GENTLEMEN: The trustees of the third and eighth divisions make the following report and recommendation in regard to the petition for a transfer of the Logan building to the white schools:

It is respectfully recommended that the request of the petitioners be not granted. The information received by the local committees of the third and eighth divisions, within which the school buildings named are situated, does not confirm the statements of the petitioners; on the contrary, they are informed that the white citizens resident near the Blair school are opposed to the proposed change.

The building referred to was erected for the use of the children of colored parents. The selection of the present site was with a view to relieve the very many colored children who live a great distance from any school. The nearest school-house for colored children is nearly a mile distant from this point, and to make the change desired will deprive these colored children of a building which is centrally located between the other school buildings and entail upon them an unnecessary hardship. No request has been made in the matter by the colored people.

In regard to the accommodation of the white children, it is to be stated that the completion of the new Capitol Hill High school relieves the Peabody building, which has been occupied by the High school heretofore, thus crowding the graded schools. It is expected that the new buildings will, for the present, be sufficient to accommodate the white children and do away with half-day schools, complained of by the author of the petition.

(Signed)

J. W. WHELPLEY,
Trustee Third Division.
L. A. CORNISH,
Trustee Eighth Division.

Adopted, and a copy ordered to be furnished the honorable Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

On motion, it was ordered that the teachers' meetings be held Monday, September 26, at such times and in such places as the superintendents may appoint.

Pending the election of officers, Mr. BRUCE presented the following:

Whereas Mr. John T. Mitchell has presided over this Board during the past two years with marked ability, fidelity, and impartiality, performing all the arduous, and sometimes difficult and delicate, duties of his position to the entire satisfaction of this Board and for the best interests of society and the cause of education: therefore,

Superintendent POWELL submitted the following :

OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS,
FRANKLIN SCHOOL BUILDING,

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 7, 1892.

To the Board of Trustees of Public Schools, D. C. :

GENTLEMEN: The discovery of America is one of the most important events in the history of the world since the dawn of Christianity. It will stand to all intelligent, thinking minds for all time as one of the early triumphs of scientific endeavor resulting in the development of a people whose first and distinguishing characteristic is a solemn and dutiful respect for the rights of man. Recognizing this great fact, Americans to whom the resulting advantages and blessings have been immeasurably great should be willing and anxious to celebrate the anniversary of this discovery. The anniversary will be appropriately celebrated by the dedication of the World's Fair Exposition buildings in Chicago.

Sunlight and air have been given to the myriads of things and beings that have covered the earth since life began without diminution of supply or impoverishment of sources, making more apparent and better understood day by day the magnificent splendor of one, the benignant invigoration of the other, and the sustaining power of both. Knowledge and thought may be given to bless and enrich the recipient without impoverishment or loss to the giver.

As light and air are free so knowledge should be free, the God-given right of man. The free schools exist in recognition of this right.

It is especially fitting that the schools should celebrate Columbus Day.
The school officers and teachers of the District of Columbia will join in this celebration with delight and enthusiasm. The children will show their knowledge of the origin and growth of free institutions and their appreciation of the enjoyment of these blessings by giving willing co-operation to this celebration.

The President of the United States in accordance with a joint resolution of the Senate and House of Representatives has proclaimed the 21st day of October, the anniversary of the finding of America, a general holiday, recommending that the public schools of the whole land join in the celebration of that day as "Columbus Day."

The Superintendents' Department of the National Teachers' Association has taken active measures to make such celebration in the schools national.

The Southern Educational Association has given its strong endorsement to the movement recommending by unanimous resolution that the day be observed by all the schools of the South.

I have the honor to recommend that the Board of Trustees authorize and direct the schools of the District to celebrate this day in an appropriate manner and that they invite the citizens of the District to join in such celebration.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. B. POWELL,
Superintendent.

On motion the superintendent was empowered to carry out the recommendations contained in the communication.

On motion of Mr. Wood the janitors were directed to start the fires in the furnaces, stoves, etc., not later than Thursday, September 14, and continue to fire until the opening of the schools on the following Tuesday.

Mr. DARLINGTON, from the Committee on Normal and High Schools, to whom was referred the complaint of Mr. Cloyd Tavenner at the last meeting of the Board, submitted the following report and amendment to the rules:

The Committee on High and Normal Schools, to whom was referred the question whether members of the late graduating class of the Washington high school should be admitted to the Normal school upon their rating, regardless of the branches of the Washington high school from which they come, or, according to a pro rata distribution of admission among the several branch schools, in proportion to the attendance at each, beg leave to report as follows:

We do not find that the printed rules of the board upon the subject are sufficiently applicable to existing conditions to afford a rule of guidance in the matter. These rules provide for an annual examination of candidates "equivalent to that upon which teachers' fourth-class certificates are issued," and the issuance of tickets to those found qualified, "commencing with the one who stands highest in scholarship, and continuing in the order of their rank."

It is evident that these rules contemplate a single examination into which all applicants for admission must enter, and the issuance of certificates of admission based entirely upon the results of such examination. This method has not been pursued for many years, the system in vogue throughout the existence of the present committee, and for years before its appointment, or that of the present principal of the High school, or superintendent, being to determine 65 out of a possible 100, by the record of the pupil throughout his or her course through the High school, and to determine the remaining 35 per centum by an oral examination addressed largely to consideration of the physical and kindred qualifications of applicants for the profession of teaching.

We are of opinion that determination of relative superiority by the percentages as originated in the different branches of the Washington high school, by different corps of teachers, without any opportunity for comparing the records of pupils in any one of the branch schools with those of pupils in the other schools, would be neither just nor expedient. The rating of pupils by numerical symbols is necessarily a wholly arbitrary process, and while, where all the pupils pass the ordeal of such rating at the hands of the same instructors, that process may be relatively correct, no relative accuracy or justice can reasonably be predicated upon the marking of different sets of pupils, by different sets of instructors, without opportunity for actual competition or comparison with each other. Not only so, but the prestige of the several branch schools, and the relative ability and success of the teachers in each, being necessarily to a considerable extent involved in the proportion of the pupils in each gaining admission to the Normal school under such a system, it is obvious that the tendencies of such a rule would not lie in the direction of the best results or the most wholesome conditions.

We are advised by Dr. Lane, the principal of the High school, that the plan of pro rata apportionment was the subject of discussion with the principals of the several branch schools in May last; that it was agreed between them that the plan was not only fair to each branch and to all the candidates, but that it seemed the best that could be formulated to protect the interests of the several schools; that it was announced to all candidates by the principal of the High school and of the several branch schools prior to the June examination; that it was well understood and apparently approved by all, and that no objection was advanced by either pupil or parent prior to the announcement of the result of the competition under it. This method of determining admissions, moreover, had met the unanimous sanction of this committee at the beginning of the school year, and is the one most approved by both the superintendent of the schools and the principal of the High school, while the alternative plan suggested is very earnestly deprecated by both of these officials, who suggest that if the pro rata method be not adopted, the sole test for admission to the Normal school should be a written and oral examination open indiscriminately to all pupils alike, the present custom of determining 65 per cent. upon the record of scholarship abolished, or supplanted by a rule requiring the several branches of the High school to certify for examination only those pupils whose general record throughout the course has reached a specified average.

No rule having been, perhaps, authoritatively fixed during the currency of the last school year, the committee are inclined to recommend, to prevent the possibility of unfairness or injustice to any that, for the next ensuing school year, all persons shall be admitted to the Normal school who would be entitled to such admission either under a rule of pro rata distribution among the several branch schools, or under a rule of admission according to rating, without reference to the school from which the pupil comes. This, we understand, would increase the number of pupils in the Normal school for the ensuing year to fifty-two instead of fifty; but, under the circumstances it is perhaps the only means of being entirely just to all. For future years we propose the following as an amendment to the rules :

"The pupils for the Washington Normal School for each year shall be selected from the graduates of the Washington High School for the preceding year, the Central High school, the Eastern High school, and the Western High school being each entitled to such pro rata proportion of the admissions to the Normal school as the number of graduates from each shall bear to the total number of graduates for the year in question.

"Out of a possible one hundred, as the standard for admission to the Normal school, 75 per centum shall be determined by the record of the pupil throughout his course through the High school, and the remaining 25 per centum shall be determined by an annual examination of candidates, which shall be conducted under the direction of the committee on High and Normal schools, in the month of June of each year.

"After the 30th day of June, 1895, no person shall be eligible for admission to the Normal school who shall not have completed the full four years' course of study in the Washington High school, or the full equivalent thereof, accompanied by at least two years' attendance at the High school."

At the last meeting of the board a further question was informally referred to themselves, namely, whether pupils of the Normal school who fail to attain the standard required for graduation should be permitted to continue school a second year.

We are of opinion that where failure to graduate results from protracted sickness the pupil might, upon the recommendation of the Normal faculty, approved by the board, be admitted the following year and permitted to graduate then. Where a failure to graduate results from intellectual inferiority, want of application, or any cause other than sickness, we are of opinion that a second year's trial should not be accorded the pupil. To do so would be to exclude from the Normal school for such second year a corresponding number of the graduates from the High school, unless the number should be increased for the purpose of accommodating such delinquent members of the preceding year, and this, in turn, would subject the new or first-year students of the Normal school to unfair competition with persons possessing the advantage of one year's prior training and study.

Respectfully submitted,

J. J. DARLINGTON,
JOHN T. MITCHELL, Committee.

On motion the report was concurred in and the amendment to the rules referred to the Committee on Rules.

Mr. MITCHELL, from the Special Committee, appointed July 8, 1893, "to consider the advisability and feasibility of extending the manual training in the schools of the District of Columbia," reported that after fully considering the needs of the schools the following is recommended for the extension of manual training :

Ordered: That there shall be organized under the direction of the Committee on Industrial Education, Drawing and Night Schools — classes, not exceeding — pupils in each class, of which — classes shall be in the first six divisions, and — classes in the seventh and eighth divisions. The pupils in each class shall be entitled to two (2) years continued instruction in the work shops, in the cooking, and in the sewing departments of the public schools.

Ordered: That the Committee on Industrial Education, Drawing and Night Schools, together with the Superintendents, each in his own divisions be, and are hereby authorized to make such rules and regulations to carry out this order of the Board as they may deem proper, subject to the approval of the Board.
